O, I have slipped the surly bonds of earth,
And danced the skies on laughter-silvered wings...

High Flight, J.G. Magee, Jr.

April 1, 1977

Vol. 6, No. 30

GSU's Dr. G. Edward Stormer was killed Friday afternoon, March 25, when the private plane he was piloting from Chicago crashed at Morgantown, West Virginia. Internationally known, Ed Stormer was university professor of human relations services in the College of Human Learning and Development. He gained reputation as a developer of the Adlerian model of counselor training, and published several books and articles on counseling and guidance. Ed came to GSU in August, 1970 during the early days of its organization. He was formerly head of the counseling and guidance department and associate professor of clinical studies at West Virginia University in Morgantown, West Virginia. Originally from Illinois, he completed his baccalaureate degree at Millikin University and masters and doctorate at University of Illinois. Dr. Stormer received a search and rescue find award for spotting the wreckage of a crashed aircraft near Manteno in 1976. He was a member of the Civil Air patrol search and rescue squadron operating out of Haedtler field, Park Forest. His flight career began with the glider training program at Governors State University in 1975. After completion of the basic course, he went on sabbatical leave and acquired his pilot's license. Upon his return he joined the Park Forest Civil Air Patrol squadron and purchased an aircraft. Tuesday evening many of Ed's family, friends and fellow faculty gathered at Lain-Sullivan funeral Home in Park Forest where Bill Katz read an eulogy. Ken Wieg and Bill Rogge also spoke. Ed was buried in Danville, Illinois.

In Memoriam

A week ago many of us lost a warm, personal friend and the University lost a generous, dedicated and talented professor. I offer my heartfelt personal sympathies to Ed Stormer's family, to his fiancée, Barbara Purcell, and to his colleagues in the College of Human Learning and Development. There is little consolation to be found in so tragic a death. All of us, however, may take some solace in the thought that Ed, as one of the founders of this University, remains at our side, in a very real sense, as we pursue the goals and mission of Governors State University. This University is itself a memorial to Ed Stormer.

President's Report on the Reorganization of the Administration

At a special meeting of the University Assembly held March 17 in the W.E. Engbretson Community Conference Center, President Leo Goodman-Malamuth II announced his plan for the administrative reorganization at GSU.

President Goodman-Malamuth prefaced his remarks by expressing pleasure with the research done by the Ad Hoc Committee assigned to prepare and study various reorganization plans. Many of the committee's ideas were incorporated in his final plan. Also consulted at length were the Vice Presidents, Unit Heads, and Deans.

The President announced that two new positions have been created.

Explaining that historically Student Services had not been given the attention and level of status required, he announced that a Dean of Student Services will be created. "Student Services is an integral part of the University: it is for the students that we are here."

The other new position is Director of Computer and Information Services, reporting directly to the President. The Instructional Computer Liaison will report to the new Director.

The President then projected a slide chart to illustrate the forthcoming changes.

One of the major changes will occur in the R & I Wing, renamed Institutional Research and Planning. This Wing will encompass Institutional Research, Budget Planning, Facilities Planning and Space Administration.

There will be three Vice Presidents instead of four, with the position of Vice President for Community Services being made an Associate Vice President and reporting to the Vice President for Academic Affairs.

The biggest change will be in the office of the Vice President for Academic Affairs, and the President stated that he had not yet decided whether to add the additional title of Provost to that position, thereby changing the function of the position of Executive Associate, or to retain the present positions as they are. Reporting directly to the Vice President for Academic Affairs will be the Associate Vice President for Research (formerly the Special Projects Coordinator under the aegis of R & I), the Associate Vice President for Community Services, the Deans of the four colleges, the Dean of Special Programs and Instructional Services, and the Dean of Student Affairs and Services.

Reporting to the Dean of Special Programs and Instructional Services will be the Director of Assessment and Coordinator of the BOG Programs, Intercollegiate Programs, Director of the UWW, LRC, Director of ICC, Coordinator of Community College Relations and Recruiting, the Director of Career Planning and Placement, and Co-op Education. The President stated that the last three might possibly report to the Dean of Student Affairs and Services.

Reporting to the Dean of Student Affairs and Services will be the Director of A/R, the Director of Student Activities, the Director of Financial Aid, Veterans Affairs, and also Counseling, Testing, and Health Services.

The position of Vice President of Administration and the offices reporting directly to that position will remain the same, with the previously mentioned exceptions of Budget Planning and Facilities Planning.

The Office of University Advocate will be abolished, but the functions will be handled by the Office of Student Affairs and Services and other appropriate University offices.

After answering questions from the floor, he asked for comments in writing on the reorganization plan.

University Assembly Meeting.
